IV. Other arrangements for debt restructuring

This debt restructuring does not involve subsequent arrangements such as personnel resettlement, land leasing, related-party transactions, or competition in the same industry.

V. Reasons, Purposes of Debt Restructuring and Its Impact on the Company

The main reason for debt restructuring is that due to the influence of the overall market environment, the enterprise's funds are relatively tight in the short term. In order to relieve the financial pressure and accelerate the recovery of funds, it has reached an agreement with suppliers and customers. When making payments to suppliers, a certain proportion of the discount will be charged, and when recovering the payments from customers, a certain proportion of the discount will be given. The determination of the relevant discount rate is reached through consultation by both parties within the range that their operations can afford.

The subsequent payment arrangements of the company are, first, based on the outstanding debts of suppliers by the settlement period, and second, in accordance with the actual recovery of funds of the company in the current period. The funds mainly consist of the recovered funds from the enterprise's external sales of bearing products. It is a normal fund payment business and does not affect the company's daily operation.

By carrying out debt restructuring, the company further sorts out the creditor-debtor relationship of the company, alleviates the financial pressure, reduces the debt burden of the company, optimizes the debt structure, improves the financial situation of the company, and is conducive to promoting the operation and development of the company.

According to relevant regulations such as the Enterprise Accounting Standards, the net gain of 12,688,784.08 yuan from this debt restructuring will be included in the investment income.

VI. Explanation of Special Opinions

(1) Opinions of the Special Meeting of Independent Directors

After review, we believe that by carrying out debt restructuring, the company can further sort out its creditor-debtor relationship, optimize its debt structure, and improve its financial situation. This is conducive to promoting the company's business development and will not have a significant adverse impact on the company's financial and business conditions. There is no behavior that harms the interests of the company and its minority shareholders, and it is in line with the overall interests of the company. All independent directors agree to this matter and agree to submit the above-mentioned proposal to the company's board of directors for deliberation. When the board of directors votes on the motion, the related directors shall recuse themselves in accordance with the regulations.
